Things to Celebrated

- Both of my children love school. It's a happy and safe place for them and they've made great friendships as well as learning lots of new and interesting topics.
- Feels very comfortable with the staff
- My son loves School and is proud to be a part of Liscard Primary.

Quick wins and Feedback to consider

Homework

- I don't think a 5 year old should receive homework at all but I believe this comes from the Government rather than the school. (1 parent/carer)
- It is appropriate but I think it can be a bit much, they are only kids after all, half a side of A4 with some cleverly targeted questions should be enough (1 parent/carer)
- Maybe go back to paper homework for younger children as trying to fill some of the sheets in on dojo is a nightmare. (1 parent/carer)

Other

- More vegan options for lunch (1 parent/carer)
- Daughter says having class pets would be lovely :) (1 parent/carer)
- I think there could be more communication via dojo (3 parent/carers)
- It would be good to have some parent lessons so we can help more with maths and English homework. (1 parent/carers)
- I don't agree with putting children on these maths websites as they are not learning anything from them, that time would be better spent learning real maths or skills that are more useful to life. (1 parent/carer)
- Get more Chrome Books (1 parent/carer)
- I also do not think children should be taught woke ideology as it encourages mental illness. (1 parent/carer)
- While giving out food bags is great. There should be no time limit on when they are available especially when these hours do not coincide with parents being at the school already(1 parent/carer)
- Parent/carer coffee mornings & evenings where organisations who can support families are brought into school to discuss their offer. (1 parent/carer)
- Friendships should be valued just as highly and as importantly as academic ability. (1 parent/carer)
